

Anglican tradition still has its place

by Canon Paul Miller

This was the title of an excellent article in the Sunday Telegraph on 30 December 2007. It was written by Canon David Meara the Rector of St. Bride's, Fleet Street in London.

Having preached at a Carol Service for lawyers at St. Clement Dane's Church in the Strand, London and having witnessed packed churches here in Shortlands over the Christmas period, what Canon Meara sets out is a very helpful assessment of what I, too, feel the Church of England has to offer at this particular time in our nation's history. The article follows:

"During December at St Bride's in Fleet Street we have held about 25 carol services, and on each occasion the church has been full.

On Christmas Eve and Christmas morning we again had capacity congregations and I have no doubt that Anglican churches across the land can tell a similar story.

Not that there is a massive religious revival under way; it's just that reports of the imminent demise of the Church of England have been greatly exaggerated.

People come to church because they want a story to connect with, a guiding narrative that helps them make sense of human existence, and because they have found that unthinking multiculturalism and rampant secularism don't satisfy and don't work.

But if these spiritual needs are to be properly nurtured, then Anglicanism needs to rediscover its quiet, understated confidence in the balance between Scripture, reason and tradition, and to assert this in the face of an increasingly intolerant fundamentalism. One feature that drew me into the Church of England was its generous tolerance of diverse opinions held together by the beauty of Cranmer's liturgy.

"Thou hast set my feet, O Lord, in a large room," says the psalmist, and I give thanks for the large room that is the Church of England, in which those who seek meaning and purpose can be welcomed, whatever stage of belief or unbelief they have reached.

My own church has endeavoured to embody this. As the journalists' church, our doors are open to all of the Fourth Estate, and we have hosted debates on such subjects as Islamophobia, capital punishment, the City, religion and the media. We attempt to look outwards, raising issues for debate rather than peddling dogmatic certainties.

We rejoice in the Anglican via media, a church which is both catholic and reformed, with a robust outlook that puts dialogue before dogma and practical involvement in the community before theological posturing."

Oberammergau 2010

by Canon Paul Miller

Towards the end of the Thirty Years' War in Central Europe there was an outbreak of the plague in Bavaria. The elders of the village of Oberammergau, in an effort to protect their village, decided to seal it off from outside contact. But an itinerant worker returned, bringing the plague with him, and it swept through the village.

Whereupon the people solemnly vowed that, if God would show his compassion and lift the scourge, every ten years they would enact the Passion of our Lord.

The plague left the village in 1633 and, as a perpetual thanksgiving and re-affirmation of faith, the villagers of Oberammergau have performed the Passion Play at regular intervals ever since.

The Play is now performed every 10 years. For the first time, the Play in 2010 will be performed during the afternoon and evening. The duration of the performance is five hours with a three hour break for dinner in the middle: 2.30pm - 5.00pm; interval; 8.00pm - 10.30pm.

The theatre seats 4,800 people and has no pillars so all seats have an excellent view. Nearer the front, you are closer to the action but further back you enjoy the full dramatic panorama. Seats are under cover and there is under-floor heating but the stage is open to the elements with the mountains as a natural backdrop.

I will be organising a visit to the Passion Play from Shortlands and combining it with a stay in the Austrian mountain resort of Maria Alm. We shall depart on 11 August 2010 and stay 5 nights at the 4 star Alpenland Hotel in Maria Alm. This is a wonderful walking area but there will also be optional excursions to Salzburg, the Krimml National Park and a Mozart dinner concert. On Monday 16 August we shall transfer to Oberammergau for a 2 night stay. We shall see the Play on Tuesday 17 August and then return home on Wednesday 18 August.

Flights will be with BA or Lufthansa scheduled flights from Heathrow to Munich.

The cost will be £1,095 on a half board basis. Single room supplement £70 in Maria Alm. In Oberammergau single rooms are unlikely to be available but if they are they will be allocated without charge. The arrangements will be made through McCabe Pilgrimages.

Because the Passion Play only takes place every 10 years seats for the Play are booked very quickly. I have reserved places for 45 and brochures will be released during March. To reserve your place you will need to place an initial deposit of £200. A second deposit will be required in July 2009. When the second deposit is paid, the McCabe booking conditions will apply and anyone cancelling would apply for a refund through their insurance company.

I have led groups to Oberammergau in 1984 (the 350th anniversary), 1990 and 2000. It is a unique experience and I very much hope we can get a good party from Shortlands to travel.

Watch out for the brochures which will be in the Church porch or available from the Parish Office. Details are also available at www.mccabe-travel.co.uk

Remembering

At Rest

We extend our sympathy to those who loved:

14 Jan John Gainsborough

John was born in Charlton. He was an only child. He married Gertrude (known as Pom) in April 1938.

John was a successful insurance agent. Prior to that he had served in the army and before that he was a butcher.

Life was never the same for him after Pom died in 2002 although he did enjoy learning to cook and caring for the wildlife in his garden.

A Service of Thanksgiving, conducted by Canon Paul Miller and attended by his niece Jill as well as friends and neighbours, took place at Beckenham Crematorium prior to cremation.
